

How To: Wirelessly Connect to the TV in the Conference Room

Using Miracast (Windows)

Steps:

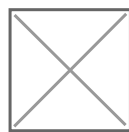

1. Connect to the Same Wi-Fi Network:
  - Connect your laptop to the below network:
    1. SSID: CourageousLove-Staff
    2. Password: F00th1lls987!
2. Connect from Your Laptop:
  - On your Windows laptop, press the Win + P keys to open the Project menu.
  - Select More Display Settings
  - Select Multiple Displays, you may have to scroll down
  - Select Connect to Wireless Display
  - Choose your TV from the list of available devices.
    1. TV Name: FHConferenceRoom
  - Follow any on-screen instructions that may appear on both your laptop and TV.
  - Select if you want to duplicate the screen or extend it.
3. To disconnect press the Win + P keys and select disconnect.

Using AirPlay (macOS)

If you have an Apple TV or a smart TV that supports AirPlay, you can use AirPlay to wirelessly share your Mac's screen.

Steps:

1. Connect to the Same Wi-Fi Network:
  - SSID: CourageousLove-Staff
  - Password: F00th1lls987!
2. Mirror Your Screen:

- On your Mac, click the Control Center Icon,  at the top right of the screen.
- Click on Screen Mirroring

- Select FH Conference Room
  - Enter the Airplay code from the TV screen into the window provided on your MAC screen.
  - Your Mac's screen should now be mirrored on your TV.
3. To disconnect go back to the screen mirroring options and click on FH Conference Room.

Troubleshooting Tips:

- Update Software: Ensure both your TV and laptop have the latest firmware and software updates installed.
- Check Network Connection: Verify that both devices are on the same Wi-Fi network and the connection is stable.
- Restart Devices: Sometimes, simply restarting both the laptop and the TV can resolve connectivity issues.
